

Responsible Sourcing Policy

At Hellenic Cables, ‘responsible sourcing’ refers to the integration of environmental, social, ethical and economic criteria into our collaboration with suppliers. This policy defines what sustainability means in the context of procurement. Its objective is to create shared value for society while complying with regulatory requirements and managing supply chain risks that could affect the company’s reputation and continuity of supply.

The policy has been developed taking into consideration the interests of key stakeholders of Hellenic Cables. The policy applies to all Hellenic Cables related functions (Procurement, Sustainability, Legal) and to all suppliers, contractors, agents and business partners (upstream value chain).

This policy ensures compliance with applicable laws and recognized guidance, such as the OECD Due Diligence Guidance for Responsible Business Conduct, the OECD Due Diligence Guidance for Responsible Supply Chains of Minerals from Conflict-Affected and High-Risk Areas, the EU Conflict Minerals Regulation, and the UK Modern Slavery Act.

The policy is reviewed and updated regularly, with updates occurring at least every three years, or earlier if required by new developments, in consultation with all affected stakeholders. This review is conducted annually and requires approval by the head of Sustainability and Procurement function.

Hellenic Cables’ responsible sourcing principles sit within our established purchasing practices that ensure an equitable procurement process in line with all applicable laws and regulations.

This policy is developed to address labor and human rights, as well as environmental potential negative relevant to upstream value chain. Potential negative impacts can be associated with violations of human rights and labor law, health and safety incidents and consumption of non-renewable energy and GHG emissions.
